

---

In Your Smallest Pocket

You'll Find The Unexpected

---

Grab Your Coat

Grab your raincoat

we're going out

Now

- somewhere, there, anywhere

Not when the sun is right or the wind is light when the floor is swept or the inbox clear

Grab your warmest jacket

This earth can't wait one minute longer

No, we don't have time for me to explain

No, it doesn't matter what shoes you wear

When we are facing into the cold spray our hands dug deep into warm pockets

We'll witness the sea birds piloted by wild winds

Feel the small pebbles tremble as the waves hurtle head-first arguing incessantly with the shore

Jane O'Shea

---

wordremedies.com